

This PDF is not a full set of build guidelines, it's part of an Instructable that has much more information on the process of building a Crokinole board.

See more information here: <https://www.instructables.com/member/geekswoodshop/>

Building a Crokinole Board

Have fun with your color options

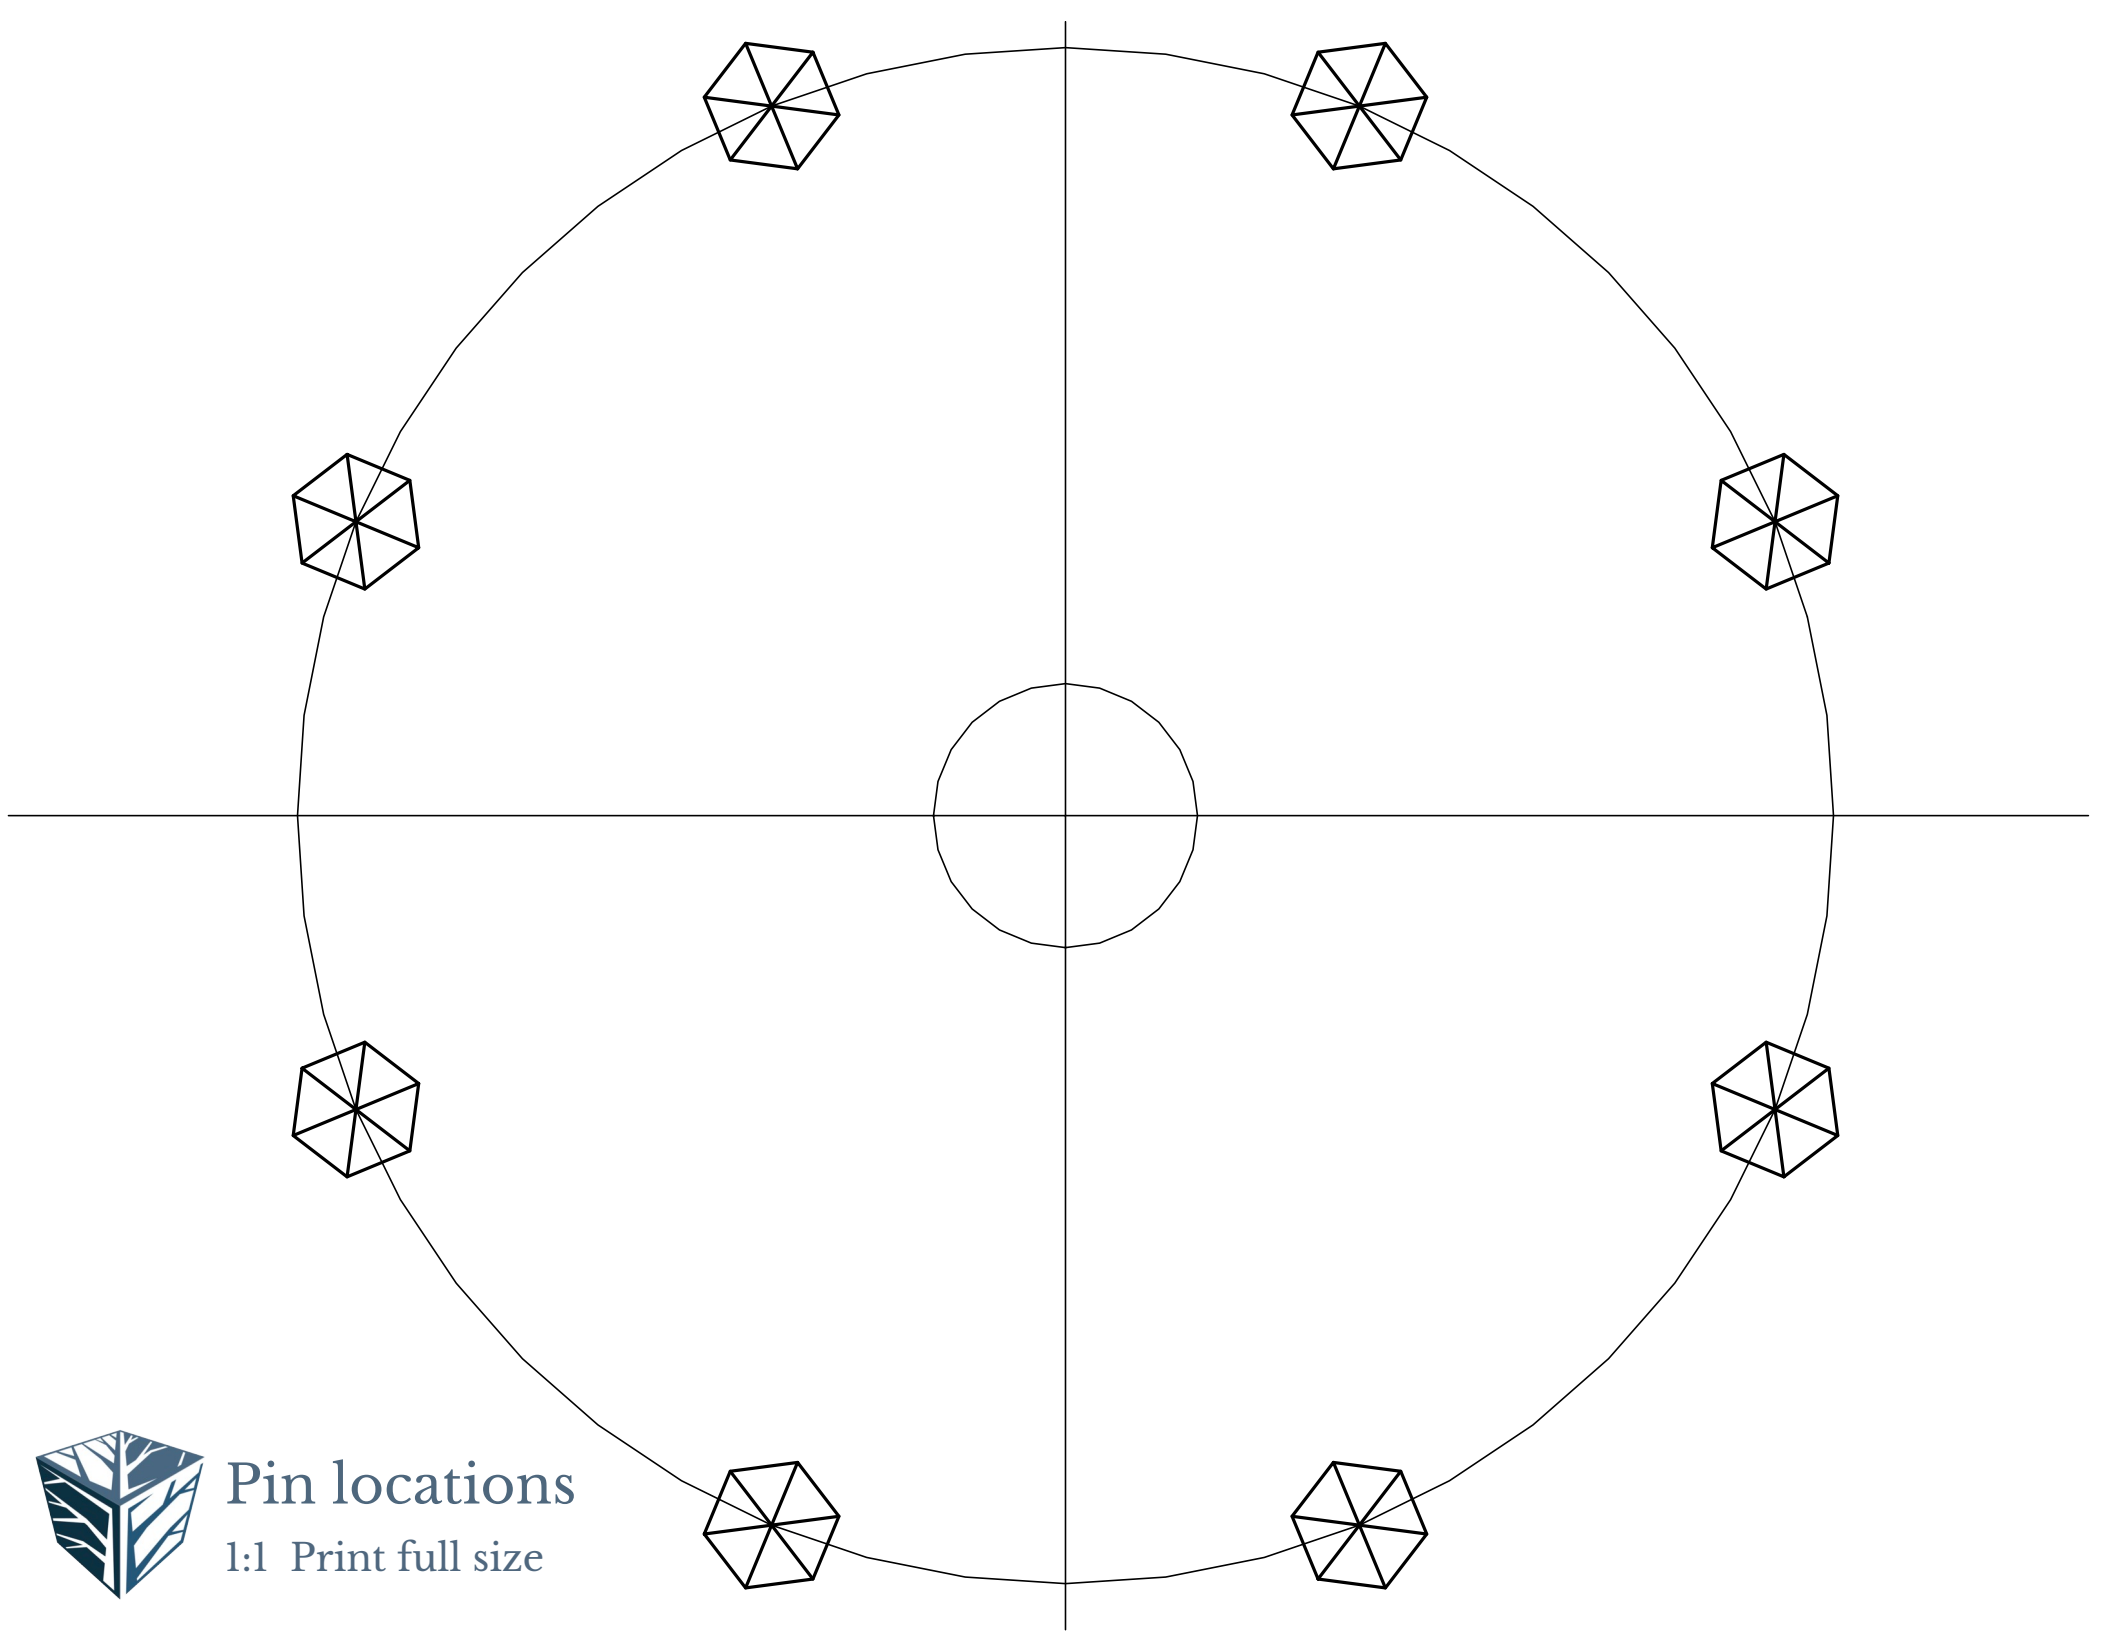

Color your own

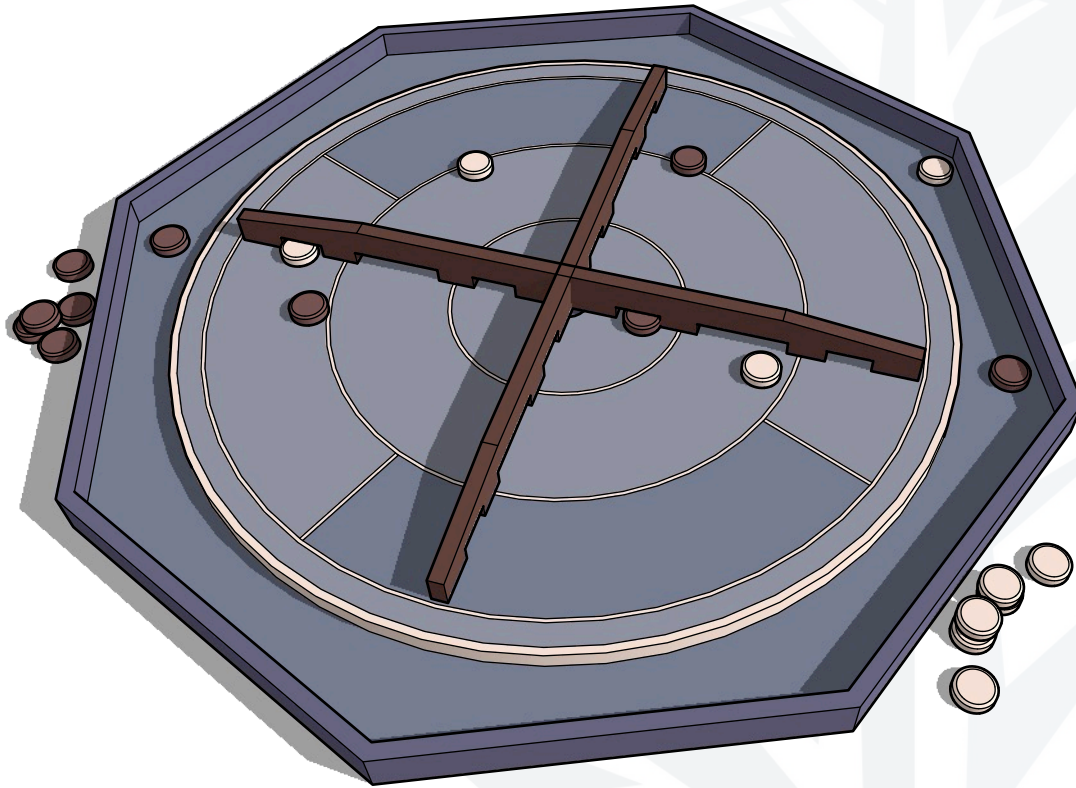

Basic board dimensions

Pin locations
1:1 Print full size

Alternative game ideas

- As teams or individuals you each start with an equal number of discs. You can play with one barrier for 2 people or 2 barriers for 2 or 4 person play.

- Rotating turns, try to land discs in an adjacent quadrant/ zone. The disc must be fully beyond the barrier wall to count.

- You must shoot from the outer ring, but can place your disc anywhere along your ring to shoot from.

- Knock opponents discs out of your zone off the board or back into their zone. Any discs on the board at the end of gameplay count. Any discs knocked off the playing board are left in the tray or set aside.

- After all turns/ discs have been used, count the score. Discs must be fully inside a ring or they are counted toward the lower ring score.

- Small ring = 3 points, middle ring = 2 points, outer ring = 1 point.

- Play several rounds until a point total is reached.

- This version is especially fun with 4 people as you are playing offense and defense from both sides but can strategize with your partner on what shots to take or which they are in a better position to take. It's also a risk that you'll deflect or land discs in your partners zone.

Optional rules