

Flatland, by Edwin A. Abbott
To the inhabitance of space in general and H.C. in particular this work is dedicated by a humble native of Flatland in the hope that even as he was initiated into the mysteries of three dimensions having been previously conversant with only two so the citizens of that celestial region may aspire yet higher and higher to the secrets of four five or even six dimensions thereby contributing to the enlargement of the imagination and the possible development of that most and excellent gift of modesty among the superior races of solid humanity.
