

Soon the shop was filled with wonderful treats. Cream pies, cakes, cookies, donuts, croissants, bread, and pretzels. "There is something else that we need," said Julia Owl.

Julia Owl agreed. "This oven will be PERFECT for baking cream pies!" cried Pinka. SHE had plans of her own. Julia Owl planned to make other treats for the shop. MANY other treats!

"We need a NAME for the shop!" So Julia Owl made a big sign. The sign said, "Pinka's Shop." "There is something else that we need," said Pinka. She left the shop.

The owls got right to work. Pinka added a row of cream pies on the first shelf. Julia Owl made donuts. She arranged them in a colorful display.

"I will help you look for a shop," said Julia Owl.

Pinka and Julia Owl looked at many buildings before they came to the right one.

"These shelves will be perfect for displaying my cream pies!" cried Pinka.

Julia Owl agreed.

Pinka's Shop

One fine day, Pinka said to Julia Owl,

"I think I would like to have a shop.

I make really marvelous cream pies.

There should be a place where I could sell them."

Soon Pinka returned with a cash register.

"Now we are ready to open our shop," said Julia Owl.

But then Julia Owl looked up at the sign.

The big, pink, PINKA sign.

When Julia Owl saw the new sign, she could hardly believe her eyes. She ran to Pinka and gave her a great big hug.

"I think this will make Julia Owl happy," said Pinka with a smile. "Pinka and Julia's Shop."

Now the sign said, "Then Pinka put back the part that said 'SHOP'."

Then Pinka put up a NEW part. Right after the "Pinka" part.

Pinka got her big white ladder. She climbed up the ladder. She took DOWN the sign that said "Shop."

Pinka went to the back room. She had a big white board. She had blue paint. She had a good idea.

But there was no time to talk about the new sign.

Customers were ready to come into the shop and buy treats!

What did they buy?

THAT will be in the next story!

THE END

Pinka could see that Julia Owl was not very happy.

She looked up at the sign.

The big, pink, PINKA sign.
